

Justin Hollis

Wilder Research
Amherst H. Wilder Foundation
451 Lexington Parkway North
Saint Paul, MN 55104

651-280-2696
justin.hollis@wilder.org

Education

University of New Mexico, New Mexico
Master of Arts Economics

2015

University of St. Thomas, Minnesota
Bachelor of Science Economics

2013

Professional Experience

Wilder Research, Amherst H. Wilder Foundation

Research Scientist

2018 - present

- Minnesota Compass data team
- Data-based decision-making for community and economic development
- Return on Investment for policy and program evaluation
- Advancing Social and Economic Opportunities workgroup
- Data Visualization: Tools and Techniques – UC Berkeley Extension

Policy Analysis and Planning, Ramsey County Manager's Office

Senior Policy Analyst

2015 - 2018

- Greater Metropolitan Workforce Council Sector Partnership Fellow
- Strategic planning and performance management
- Open data for government accountability and transparency

Economics Department, Minnesota State

Instructor – Inver Hills Community College

2015 - 2016

- Principles of Microeconomics
- Principles of Macroeconomics

Economics Department, University of New Mexico

Graduate Research Assistant

2013 - 2015

- Economics of Antitrust and Regulation – Teaching Assistant
- Microeconomics – Teaching Assistant
- Center of Education Policy Research – Research Assistant
- Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Center for Health Policy – Research Assistant
- Institute for Social Research – Graduate Assistant
- American Economic Association Summer Program Fellow

Publications

- Hollis, J. (2019). Prospective social return on investment (SROI): Prepared for Minnesota Independence College and Community (MICC). Wilder Research.
- Vargas, E. D., Huyser, K., Ybarra, V. D., Hollis, J., & Sanchez, G. R. (2018). The influence of the great recession on racial attitudes among non-Hispanic whites in the United States. Journal of Economics, Race, and Policy, 1, 196-203.
- Hollis, J. B. (2015). Santa Fe, New Mexico's living wage ordinance and its effects on the employment and wages of workers in low-wage occupations [Master's thesis, University of New Mexico]. University of New Mexico Digital Repository. https://digitalrepository.unm.edu/econ_etds/35/

Presentations

- Hollis, J. (2019). Data, demographic trends, and tools for decision-makers [Presentation]. Metropolitan Alliance for Connected Communities, Saint Paul, Minnesota.
- Vargas, E. D., Huyser, K., Ybarra, V. D., Hollis, J., & Sanchez, G. R. (2015, August). The influence of the great recession on racial attitudes among non-Hispanic whites in the United States [Roundtable discussion]. American Sociological Association, Chicago, IL, United States.

Professional and Community Service

- | | |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------|
| Twin Cities Research Group, Co-chair | 2017 - 2020 |
| Greater Metropolitan Workforce Council Sector Skills Academy Fellow | 2018 |